POETRY.

AT GETTYSBURG.

I stood to-day upon the ridge
Where once the blue brigades were massed,
And gazed across the plain below,
O'er which the charging columns passed.
That long, low line of gray, flame tipped,
Which still its onward movement kept,
Until it reached the sandy slope
By twice a hundred cannon swept.
And snatching downward somewhat sad,
Among the stones no longer stained,
I halted at a little mound
That only the front rank had gained.
A little mound left all alone,
Unmarked by flower or cypress-wreath,
To show that some regretful heart
Remembered him who slept beneath.
But, half-way hidden by the grass,
I found a broken barrel stave—
The headboard which some foeman's hand
Had kindly placed above its grave:
And on the side I traced these words,
In letters I could scarce divine:
"A Rebel, Name unknown, Who fell
First in the Foremost Line."

No more—and yet what memories
Were wakened by that scanty phrase!
Again I heard the rallying shout,
Again I saw the ranks ablaze;
Once more the air with smoke was thick,
And earth below with blood was wet,
Where, like two serpents, lithe and fierce,
The wrestling squadrons met.

The field was bare; no grinning skulls
Gleamed ghastly in the clear noontide,
For on a hill—not far away,
The dead are gathered side by side.
Yet none had touched this little mound:
Mayhap by chance, or by design,
They left him where death struck him down,
"First in the Foremost Line."

And they did well—there let him rest,
A fitter spot there could not be,
No monument upon the earth,
No sepulchre within the sea,
Could match the tomb that nature gives—
The shroud she spreads o'er his remains,
The green turf kissed by summer suns,
And washed by winter rains.

Some comrades, battle-scarred and grim,
When years on years have passed away,
Telling his children, grieved around,
The story of that awful day,
May not forget to speak of one,
Whose nameless grave is glory's shrine—
The gallant hero, the roses gone,
Planted in the Foremost Line!

Perchance for him a mother's soul
Sought God upon that bitter night,
When first the direful breezes bore
Disastrous tidings of the fight;
And in the coming twilight gray
Belked sad eyes, in tearful strain,
Gazed northward woe wistfully
For one that never came again.

Perchance for him some fresh young life
Drooped wearily from week to week,
Struggling against growing grief
That ate the roses on her cheek,
Till pitying death, with gentle touch
Set sleep eternal in her face,
And, sorrowing, the roses gone,
Planted his lilies in their place.

God's peace be with thee in thy rest,
Lone dweller in a stranger's land;
And may the mould about thy breast
Lie lighter than a sister's hand!
O'er bow her head, the roses gone,
Her fadless wreath of laurel twine;
Enough for thee—thy epitaph:
"First in the Foremost Line!"

—Joseph Bradford.

STORY TELLER.

A Plucky Ride.

It was late in the fall of 1777 that a foraging party from a British camp in Philadelphia made a descent upon the farm of Major Rudolph, south of that city. Having supplied themselves well with provender, one of the soldiers happened to spy a valuable cow in the lane leading to the barnyard, and poor Sukey was immediately confiscated.

Now, this happened to be the pride of the farm, and was claimed as the exclusive property of Miss Anne Rudolph, aged twelve years. Of course, no other animal on the estate was so important as this cow, and confiscation by the soldiers could not be tolerated. So Miss Anne made an impetuous dash for her recovery; but finding the men deaf to her entreaties, and the sergeant proof against her indignation, the spirited child rushed to the stables, saddled her pony, and was soon galloping toward the city, determined to appeal to the commander-in-chief of the British army.

Meanwhile, poor Sukey trudged along, her reluctant steps quickened now and then with a point of a bayonet in her well-rounded side.

To reach the city before the foraging party was the one thought of the child, as the pony went bounding along the old Chester road at a pace that soon brought her within the British lines. She was halted at the first outpost by the guard, and the occasion of her haste was demanded. The child replied:

"I must see the General immediately."

"But, the General cannot be disturbed for every trifle. Tell me your business, and, if important, it will be reported to him."

"It is of importance, and I cannot stop to talk to you. Please let go my pony, and tell me where to find the General."

"But my little girl, I cannot let you pass until you tell me whence you came and what your business is within these lines."

"I came from Darby, and my business is to see the General immediately. No one else can tell him what I have to say."

The excitement of the child, together with her persistence, had its influence. General Washington was in the neighborhood with his ragged army, watching the opportunity to strike another blow for the liberty of the colonies. The officer well knew that valuable information in the movements of the rebels reached the British commander through families residing in that country. Here might be such a case, and this consideration determined the soldier to send the child to headquarters. So, summoning an orderly, he directed him to escort the girl to the General.

It was late in the afternoon by this time, and Cornwallis was at dinner with a number of British officers, when "a little girl from the country with a message for the General" was announced.

"Let her come in at once," said the General, and a few moments later Miss Anne Rudolph entered the great tent.

"Well, my little girl, I am General Cornwallis," said the gentleman kindly. "What have you to say to me?"

"I want my cow!"

Profound silence reigned for a moment, then came forth a burst of laughter from all the gentlemen around the table. The girl's face reddened, but she held her ground, and her features and set flashing eyes convinced the General that the child before him was one of no ordinary spirit.

With ready tact the General drew from her a narration of her grievance. "Why did not your father come?" he asked.

"My father is not at home."

"And have you no brother?"

"Both my brothers are away. But, General," she cried impatiently, "while you keep me here talking they will kill my cow!"

"So your brothers also are away? Now, tell me, where are they?"

"My oldest brother is with General Gates."

"And your other brother, where is he?" inquired the General.

"Is with Harry Lee."

The girl's eyes fairly blazed as she spoke the name of gallant "Light Horse Harry Lee."

"But, General, I want my cow."

"Ah, ah, one brother with Gates and one with Lee. 'Now,' said the General, severely, 'where is your father?'"

"He is with General Washington," answered the little maiden; "but he is a prisoner now."

"So, so. Father and brothers all in the Continental army! I think, then, you must be a little rebel."

"Yes, sir, if you please. But I want my cow."

"Well, you are a brave little girl, and you shall have your cow, and something more too." Then, stooping forward, he detached from his garters a pair of brilliant knee buckles, which he laid in the child's hands. "Take these," he said, "and keep them to remember that Lord Cornwallis can appreciate courage and truth even in a young rebel."

Then, calling an orderly, he instructed him to go with the child through the camp in search of the cow, and when he should find the animal to drive her home again. So Miss Anne returned home in triumph with her cow. And those sparkling knee-buckles are treasured by her descendants as a memento of Cornwallis and the Revolution.—Wide Awake.

DANTE.

Dante Allighieri was born at Florence in May, 1265. His father, who died when the poet was only ten years old, was a juriconsult and a strong advocate of the Guelph party.

Dante's education was the best that the times afforded; Latin, classics, rhetoric, dialectics, in which he delighted, astronomy and music which he dearly loved, figure among his early studies; later at the Universities of Bologna and Padua, he pursued the study both of natural and of moral philosophy—philosophy which in his weary solitude proved his constant friend.

It was near the close of Dante's ninth year that he beheld Beatrice, then a beautiful little girl of about his own age. In his Vita Nuova, he says "she appeared to me clothed in a most noble color, a subdued and decorous crimson; girdled and adorned in such wise as was suitable to her most youthful age. Thenceforward love swayed my soul which was even then espoused to her."

Still there is no positive proof that Beatrice ever knew of the deep and tender love that was lavished upon her. At the age of twenty-four she married Simone de Bardi, to whom she was probably engaged when but a child. Four years later Beatrice died. Dante, who could not bear even the thought of her death, was well nigh overwhelmed by the reality, and longed

"As for a sweet and tranquil state of rest."

Ah! how little did he dream of the weary years of exile yet awaiting him! It was by suffering that he was to be made perfect. From that time forth it seemed as though the Fates had plucked every rose from his path, and left naught but the thorns.

In 1291 Dante was prevailed upon by his friends to marry Gemma Donati; but as a proof that the memory of Beatrice was still dear to him, he named his only daughter after her.

Florence, in Dante's time, was the seat of the most bitter conflicts between the two principal political parties, the Guelph and the Ghibelline; first the one, then the other gained the ascendancy, and banished the chiefs of the opposite party.

In the thirty-fifth year of his age, Dante, who belonged to the Guelph party, was elected one of the six Priors, the chief magistrates of his city. Previous to his election the Guelph party was divided into two factions whose jealousy and hatred of each other increased the difficulties of Dante's position as Prior. During his priorship, the exiled party, having sought the aid of Charles of Valois, Dante was sent on an embassy to Rome, to secure the assistance of the Pope in preventing this foreign intervention. The time unavoidably spent in gaining the desired assistance proved of unbounded advantage to his enemies, who finally on the 10th of March, 1302, banished him forever from his native city, under penalty of being burned alive if ever found within her gates.

For fourteen weary years, alone, without a home, compelled to beg his bread from door to door, misunderstood and hence unappreciated even by those who knew him best, the true man and poet wandered through almost every place in which his language was spoken. "Truly," he says, "I have been a vessel without sail and without rudder."

It is true that in 1316 Florence would have permitted Dante to return, if he had been willing to have paid a fine, and to have publicly acknowledged a guilt which was never his. With such terms the intense and noble nature of Dante could not comply. "If by no honorable way can entrance be found into Florence, there will I never enter."

But his roaming life was nearly ended. In 1320, we find him at Ravenna as the guest of the benevolent Guido Novello. It was in this retreat that Dante wrote the last lines of his "mystic, unfathomable song;" and here also in 1321 died the exiled poet whose work has never been surpassed.

As a man, Dante was the personification of intensity, capable of the bitterest hate, as well as the deepest love; and though lofty and stern, he was possessed of that depth of sympathy and tenderness which Milton lacked. His bearing was always dignified, and his conversation, though he rarely spoke, was marked by gravity and subtlety.

These forcible characteristics we see reflected in his Divine Comedy, his "World of Soul," where every emotion, every vice and virtue is brought before us with startling vividness; here utter misery and supreme happiness are so intensely depicted as to seem scarcely less than real.

Though each picture is presented in full detail, still the action of the whole poem is rapid and precise. "Part of Dante's grandeur," says an eminent critic, "lies in a mystical brevity peculiar to himself."

Milton astonishes us, but Dante arouses our deepest interest. His "mystic, unfathomable song," is the outpouring of a noble heart, to all nations for all time.

"Ah! from what agonies of heart and brain, What tortures, what tears, what hate of wrong, What passionate outcry of a soul in pain, Uprose this poem of the earth and air, This mediæval miracle of Song!"

THE WORLD'S CONGRESS AUXILIARY

Of the World's Columbian Exposition.

DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION

Preliminary Address of the Committee of the World's Congress Auxiliary on a Congress of Educators of the Deaf, at Chicago, in 1893.

To the Instructors and Educators of the Deaf throughout the World, Greeting:

The undersigned have, by the World's Congress Auxiliary of the World's Columbian Exposition, been appointed a Special Committee on Instruction of the Deaf, and in this capacity now address you.

One of the greatest events of the nineteenth century and one which will mark an important epoch in human progress, will be the World's Columbian Exposition, to take place in the City of Chicago, U. S. A., in the year 1893, which will be the most extensive and comprehensive exhibit the world will ever have seen. The corporation which will conduct this Exposition has been organized under the laws of the State of Illinois, and has been recognized by Act of Congress.

The Exposition will embrace a physical exhibit of all departments of human progress. The World's Congress Auxiliary of the World's Columbian Exposition is an organization to bring together the prominent workers in all departments of human skill, art, education and philanthropy, without whom the materials for the World's Columbian Exposition could never have existed. If the physical exhibit is of great importance, who shall measure the importance of congresses of the authors, the architects and the makers of the exhibits, or of the men and women who so taught and trained them that their exhibits not only became a possibility, but an actuality?

In its first report the Auxiliary announces its object to be:

To promote the holding of appropriate conventions during the World's Columbian Exposition of 1893, for the consideration of the Living Questions in all the departments of human progress, and in addition thereto, a Union Congress for each department, under the direction of the Auxiliary, in which the important results accomplished will be set forth by the most eminent representatives who can attend, thus securing freedom and independence of separate organizations, and union and harmony in presenting to the world the higher achievements of mankind, while the people who will come to the Exposition may enjoy the privilege of seeing and hearing many of the distinguished leaders whose names have become familiar to the enlightened world.

NOT THINGS, BUT MEN.

This Auxiliary has no jurisdiction over any exhibit of material things, but will deal exclusively with conventions of persons and their proceedings. The Exposition will present the progress of mankind as represented by material forms, while the Auxiliary will portray the progress with the pen and the living voice, and will endeavor to crown the whole glorious work by the formation and adoption of better and more comprehensive plans than have hitherto been pursued to secure the progress, prosperity, unity, peace and happiness of the world.

The original announcement of the object of this organization declares:

Among the great themes which the Congresses are to consider are—Educational systems, their advantages and their defects, and the means by which they may best be adapted to the recent enormous increase in all departments of knowledge.

The most efficient and advisable means of increasing productive ability, prosperity and virtue throughout the world.

The announcement further states: It is impossible to estimate the advantages that would result from the mere establishment of a personal acquaintance and friendly relations among the leaders of the intellectual and moral world who now, for the most part, know each other only through the interchange of publication, and perhaps the formalities of correspondence. And what is transcendently more important, such congresses, convened under circumstances so auspicious, would doubtless surpass all previous efforts to bring about a real fraternity of nations and unite the enlightened people of the whole earth in a general co-operation for the attainment of the great ends for which human society is organized.

A General Committee on Educational Congresses has been appointed, of which Hon. and Rt. Rev. Samuel Fallows, D.D., LL.D., is chairman.

Special Committees on Higher Education, on Public Instruction, on Public Instruction in Music, on Special Education, on Instruction of the Feeble-minded, on Instruction of the Blind, on Instruction of the Deaf, consisting of the undersigned: Philip G. Gillett, Superintendent of the Illinois Institution for the Education of the Deaf, chairman; J. L. Noyes, Superintendent of the Wisconsin School for the Deaf, desire to hear, at as early a date as possible, from all workers in this department of education in all parts of the world, and invite suggestions to be freely given by such workers with reference to conventions of experts in the department of education in which they are engaged.

It is hoped through the Department of State, which has manifested the greatest interest in the Columbian Exposition and all related to it, to secure the co-operation of foreign governments in encouraging the fullest possible attendance of the instructors of the deaf throughout the world upon the World's Congress of such educators. An Advisory Council, composed of eminent workers in all parts of the world, will aid the committee in the arrangement of the Congress.

The preliminary suggestion of arrangement of the Congresses provides for groups of conventions in the months of May, June, July, August, September and October, 1893. One group comprises Science, Philosophy, Invention and Education, including Congresses of Colleges, Universities, Teachers, Superintendents of Schools, Astronomers, Archaeologists, Botanists, Chemists, Electricians, Ethnologists, Geologists, Geographers, Mineralogists, Metallurgists, Zoologists, etc., etc.

As our work is educational, our convention will bring us together with most interesting classes of specialists.

In a general way it may be said that the subjects to be discussed at the World's Congress of teachers and friends of the deaf will not be such as delve into the past so much as living questions that will interest and engage men with their faces set to the future, seeking more efficient methods and more comprehensive plans than hitherto known. They will be diverse enough to interest all parties of all views, and will concern all methods of this department of education. The special topics for discussion will be decided upon after correspondence has made known the wishes of those who will attend from various parts of the world, and in as close conformity as shall seem best, to the action of previous conventions with reference to the proceedings of future meetings.

SUMMARY PUNISHMENTS.

In the matter of tolerating social nuisances, Americans are accused of being a very long-suffering people; but whatever their own practice, they will always be ready to cry, "Served him right!" in every case like the following, the story of which comes from England. In a railway carriage sat a pale, middle-aged lady, a slender youth hardly out of his teens, and a burly-looking squire.

At one of the stations a young man got in, holding a lighted cigarette in his hand, and as the smoke curled in the lady's face, she coughed.

"This is not a smoking carriage," said the youth.

"I'm not smoking," retorted the new-comer. "I dare say my cigarette will keep till we get to the next station."

"Tobacco smoke makes my mother ill, and I must ask you to put out your cigarette."

"I'm not smoking, and I shall not do it."

"Then I'll make you!" said the lad. His face had grown pale, and as he rose, the other put out a formidable fist which would probably have crippled his opponent.

And now a strange thing happened. The burly squire had hitherto remained quite passive, but he now produced something which glittered in the sunlight; there was a click, and the young man with the cigarette was securely handcuffed.

"You will pick up your cigarette, and throw it out of the window," said the "squire," who proved to be a detective dressed for some important work.

The cigarette was clumsily picked up with both hands, and dropped out of the window. Just then the train rolled into a station, and the young man, muttering, "Very sorry—won't do it again—had no idea"—was given his liberty, which he hastened to use by slipping at once out of the carriage.

A Story About Mozart.

Here is a story about Mozart which we do not remember to have heard before. The great man was paying a visit to a monastery, and during mass was tortured by the playing of a ludicrously inefficient organist. At dinner the prior asked Mozart how he liked the organist's performance.

"He plays in quite a Biblical fashion," said Mozart.

"What do you mean?"

"His left hand does not know what his right hand doeth."

GREAT preparations are being made for the reunion of graduates of the Maryland School for the Deaf, which will be held on June 16th and 17th, at the school, in Frederick, Md. The editor of the JOURNAL acknowledges with thanks the receipt of an invitation to be present, but regrets his inability to do so. However, the JOURNAL will have a representative on hand to take notes of the proceedings, and will in the issue of the paper following the reunion give a complete and faithful account of the exercises and happenings incident to the occasion. Deaf-mutes desiring to renew their subscriptions or to become new subscribers, can order through our agent, Mr. J. A. Brannick, of Baltimore, Md.

We acknowledge the receipt of the "Proceedings of the First Convention of the Kentucky Association of the Deaf." It is an octavo of fifty pages, and was printed in the printing office of the Kentucky Institution. The convention was held in June of last year, and as the salient features were chronicled in the JOURNAL shortly after, a review of the details seems unnecessary. The papers read were entertaining and instructive, and very often humorous—the banquet speeches being especially pointed and brief, intermixed with good-natured fun that must have made it a memorable event. The piece of resistance at the banquet was the pre-historic "gunger," a cake having ginger and molasses as its principal ingredients, and represented by Mr. E. D. Hunter in his response as being the most toothsome of all the delicacies that tickle the palate of the Kentucky small boy, while at the same time being a most powerful mental and moral agent in their education. The association has about ninety members enrolled, and has established a fund to assist deserving and capable deaf-mutes, who lack only the pecuniary means, to take a course at the National Deaf-Mute College.

The Virginia Association has just issued a report of the proceedings of its convention which was held last July at Richmond, Va. About everything the pamphlet contains has already been made public in the JOURNAL. We cannot praise the typographical work of the book, because it is a very poorly made-up affair, though the printer has a rather ornamental cover on it. The roster contains about sixty-five active members and twenty honorary members. The next convention of this Association will be held at Staunton, Va., on August 16th and 17th, 1892.

We have received a neatly printed pamphlet of sixteen pages, entitled "The Discussion and Results of Oral Work," from the pen of Samuel Gaston Davidson. It was originally read before the Teachers' Association of the Pennsylvania Institution for the Deaf and Dumb, and has been printed in pamphlet form at the request of the members. When we have sufficient time at our disposal, we may make a few comments upon some of Mr. Davidson's statements.

ATTENTION is called to the announcement of the Committee appointed to arrange for the International Convention of the Deaf. It will be noted that it has been active in preparing preliminaries, and that the deaf-mute public will soon be favored with a circular concerning the great Convention.

The attention of the JOURNAL readers is directed to the new advertisements on the fourth page—the picnic of the Pas-a-Pas Club, Chicago, and the union excursion of the Albany and Troy Deaf-Mute Societies.

The College Paper.

NAMED "THE BUFF AND BLUE."

Scraps.

(From our College Correspondent.)

In the A. A. U. games, open to all amateurs in the country, held in Washington last Saturday, Taylor, C. A. C., won two gold medals for throwing the 16 lb. hammer, and shot-putting. He was beaten in the 56 lb. weight throwing, the three feet handicap being too much for him. Among the sprinters, we noticed some bearing the famous "cherry diamond" emblem, representing the Manhattan Athletic Club. Philadelphia and Pittsburgh were well represented.

Prof. Fay delivered a very interesting lecture last Friday, on the life of the late poet, J. Russell Lowell. President Gallaudet will deliver the Baccalaureate Sermon next Sunday.

We return thanks to Fox, '83, one of the college's best friends, for sending us a programme of the inter-collegiate athletic games held in New York recently.

Rules for the general management of the college periodical were submitted to the students Saturday morning, and accepted. The paper will be known as "The Buff and Blue." Election for officers to take charge of the paper for the year 1892-'93, will take place Monday next. Two young ladies of the college, Misses Ziegler, '93, and Martin, '95, will be on the Board of Editors. Tilton, '93, will probably be chosen Editor-in-Chief.

E. Long, '92, gave another magic lantern exhibition near Baltimore Saturday night.

Senator Chandler, of New Hampshire, with his wife, drove around Kendall Green last Thursday.

REPORT OF THE O. W. L. SOCIETY.

The last meeting of the O. W. L. Society for the year took place on Saturday, June 4th, at 8 P. M. Miss Lowman, '92, the President, opened with a farewell address. Her subject was William Cullen Bryant, and after a sketch of his life she gave a farewell speech to the society. The reply was made by Miss Tiegler, '93, on behalf of the Undergraduates. Her subject was "The Father of his Country."

Next followed a game, "the plate-trick," prepared by Misses Frederick, '95, and Whitelock, '96. It was followed by impromptu speeches of five minutes' duration. Miss Bickler, '94, was required to give the names of the Presidents of the United States in their order; and Miss Kruse, '95, to enlarge on the Farmers' Alliance. Other subjects were of a similar unexpected character. A scene from "Two Gentlemen of Verona" was then given by Misses Schankweiler, '94, and Magill, '96. At 9:30 P. M. after the critic's report, the meeting adjourned.

Mr. and Mrs. Sanders left for Beverly, Mass., last week.

Paul Lange, '92, is at the Volta Bureau, translating German writings relating to the education of the deaf.

Strawberries are plentiful hereabout. We must thank the Matron for her special favor last week.

Gardener Mangum is kept pretty busy, chasing the night prowlers out of the strawberry patch. This reminds us of a story that has been handed down through several generations. A Duck, happening to pass by the aforesaid patch, helped himself to a liberal supply of the delicious fruit, and was seen by an upper student who wrote a note, making believe it came from the gardener, and had it delivered to the Duck by a farm-hand. In the note an explanation of his trespass on the berry patch was demanded, and if no explanation be given at once, the authorities of the college would be notified. The frightened Duck wrote a long letter full of "knotty" language, asking forgiveness, etc. The letter was read by the students, and there was much fun over it. Among its contents one line has become very famous here and bids fair to last. It is this: "Forgive me; I was ignorant of your unlawfulness."

Prof. Chickering is a good weather-observer, and is constantly encountering inquiries about the weather a day or two ahead. His predictions are nearly always correct.

Director Gordon of the Normal Department is at present engaged at tabulating the results of the students' progress in lip-reading and speech during the year. The results will, no doubt, be of great value to those oralists who take sensible views of articulation.

Fellow Vaught contemplates taking a trip to Europe this Summer. Mr. Vaught is a great traveller. He once "took in" the Sandwich Islands.

E. Long, '92, thinks of going to Australia to act as a missionary among the deaf of that country.

Nearly all the Seniors will stay a week after the college closes. This privilege has always been granted the graduating class.

There are about twenty-five adult deaf-mutes in Washington, all doing very well.

Miss Lowman, '92, will teach in the North Dakota School for the Deaf next Fall.

Quite a number of the students living in and near New England, and a few of the college professors and teachers of the Kendall School, will attend the seventy-fifth year celebration of "Old Hartford," August 29th, 30th, and 31st.

Photographer Kershner, '94, is busy taking class photographs.

Dennison Gallaudet departed last week for Altoona, Pa., where he has secured employment in the Pennsylvania Railroad Company.

The swimming pool is reserved on Mondays and Thursdays for the ladies.

The dome of the Capitol will be no longer visible from Kendall Green, for new houses are looming up all around.

We said some time ago that the Porter tree planted by the class of '90, had died. It is all right, and is bearing leaves.

The Kendall Base Ball team has practically disbanded. Four victories and two defeats, is its record this year.

Explanation.

The following report is given out to the members of the Chicago Press Club of the Deaf. Criticism has appeared in print, which the local committee believes reflects upon the course adopted by them. In order to nip in its bud an unnecessary controversy, the committee deems wise to give at once public, a rough report of what has been accomplished up to date. Owing to the short time given to prepare it, the committee has to overlook the propriety of furnishing each paper of the deaf a copy.

O. H. REGENSBURG.

CHICAGO.

REPORT OF THE LOCAL COMMITTEE OF ARRANGEMENTS OF THE NATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF THE DEAF.

On May 23d, 1892, the committee of local arrangements at Chicago authorized its secretary to make formal application to the President of the World's Congress Auxiliary for an assignment of dates for the holding of an "international convention of the deaf" in connection with the World's Congresses to be held in Chicago next year. [Note specially that all congresses will be World's congresses, and that the application has no reference to the National Association of the Deaf as a distinct organization.] In his application the secretary made mention of the fact that the deaf desire their convention to precede that of the teachers of the deaf.

On the same date the secretary received a reply from the president of the Congress Auxiliary, in which he stated the application would, as had been previously intimated in an interview, be referred to Dr. P. G. Gillett, Chairman of the World's Congress of Instructors of the Deaf, "for such recommendations as that committee may deem proper." May 26th, a letter was received from Dr. Gillett, in which occurred these words: "I have examined your application with much interest, and am highly gratified with its spirit and aims. I will gladly do all I can to aid in advancing your wishes in the matter, and to bring about such a convention under the auspices of the World's Congress Auxiliary." He also stated that he would "at once communicate with the other members of our committee, and I have no doubt that all you desire can be brought about." He requested the local committee to name an Advisory Council composed of eminent and enlightened deaf-mutes, not only of this country but throughout the world, as had been done in the case of the Teachers of the Deaf. The information was given that he should "expect members of the Advisory Council to arrange the program, and look generally after its business, of course, always subject to the World's Congress Auxiliary as other congresses are."

May 31st, the Secretary of the Local Committee in compliance with Dr. Gillett's suggestion, sent a list of names to compose the Advisory Council, in which each state had one or more representative, representation being on the basis of one name to every million population or less. The list also included the names of thirty prominent foreign deaf-mutes. June 1st, a letter was received from Dr. Gillett, approving the list sent him. He suggested that it would be next in order for an address to be prepared to the deaf throughout the world, setting forth the objects of the congress, and stating that as soon as a date can be fixed notice thereof will be given. The address to be signed by a special committee, as was done in the case of the Congress of Teachers, to be followed by the proposed Advisory Council, the members of which should be requested to make such suggestions to the special committee with reference to the congress and its proceedings as they deem wise.

A preliminary address to the deaf of the world will be issued as soon as possible.

Geo. T. DOUGHERTY, Chairman.

J. E. GALLAUDET, Secretary.
JACQUES LOWE, Treasurer.

Jottings on Decoration Day.

A SOCIAL WEEK.

June the month of Roses—A Foreign Request—Best wishes for the St. Louis Club.

(From our Chicago correspondent.)

Believing that an injustice was done to Mr. D. W. George in our last letter, the JOURNAL correspondent makes a public apology, and trusts the gentleman will come to look over our criticism lightly. A careful perusal of his letter in the Advance reveals it was no intention of his to antagonize the local committee of arrangements. The letter was intended merely as a suggestion, and no one will question his rights as such. Suggestions on the best course to act are always fruitful of good, and will be cheerfully read. We believe also we had no authority to speak for the Committee.

The monthly meeting of the Pas-a-Pas Club was the occasion of a full attendance. Besides finishing the revision of the constitution very little else was done. One application for membership made, and the name of the gentleman is Aug. Reinke. An attempt was made to inaugurate a "ladies' day" at the club, on which day the club rooms were to be set apart exclusively for the use of the wives and sweethearts of the members. The bachelors by their vote frustrated the plan.

June 18th has been set apart for a strawberry festival under the supervision of a ladies' committee composed of Mesdames Gallaudet, Gibson, Watson and Misses Koebel and Wiley. Prof. Rogers, of Jacksonville, will first give a sketch of Uncle Tom's Cabin for mental digestion.

Chas. E. Sullivan, a cowboy from head to foot, is in town on matters of business. He hails from Leadville, Colorado, and is a semi-mute of high intelligence.

"Gib" frankly acknowledged to us he had no intentions to seriously incriminate us in the charge we use our official position on the local committee to give our organ the benefit of the news. We did not meet him but for a few moments after the meeting of the committee. Again, all information for the public should come from the secretary, not from us.

One Lyons, of New York City, is making his home in this city.

Decoration Day was a half holiday. Jake Kleinhaus, Codman, Bugler, and fully twenty others, attended the races at Garfield Park, and luck stood in with them. Each won on the races from ten to twenty-five dollars.

F. G. Gibson signalized his marriage with treating the clubmen to a box of Havana twenty-five-cent straights. Did "J. E. G." take one in order to save a quarter to treat a friend?

The correspondent with several ladies went to Pullman on Decoration Day to see the finish of the Pullman race. Never in the cycling history of Chicago was more interest shown. Fully three hundred contestants for honor were in the line, and a thousand cycles followed behind to keep company with the stragglers.

The Army detachment on bicycles with sabres drawn presented a picturesque sight, and cheers on cheers rang out as the "mounted cavalry" swept along. In strolling through this handsome suburb, we found Mr. Bradley standing in front of his residence. Mr. Bradley is well-known in mute circles, and his brother is Superintendent of the Pullman shops.

Miss Whipple, whose residence here has been a source of pleasure, to her numerous friends, will return to her home at Spencer, Wis., until her sister returns from her European trip.

The daily papers speak highly of the assistance rendered by Mr. R. E. Bray to Mr. Fish, who was dangerously assaulted by a bully in broad daylight in the center of the city. Mr. Fish is of the prominent firm of Fish, Joseph & Co., and at the time of the assault, Mr. Bray was among the first to run to his assistance, and then called for water and other medical restoratives. When interviewed by the city press, he said, with usual modesty could, "I am deaf, and on this account could render no assistance."

Last Wednesday was the double occasion of Miss Pauline Brown's birthday and debut into society. A reception was held at her house, and Mr. and Mrs. Brown overlooked nothing to the enjoyment of the guests. Owing to the person in charge of the invitations failing to comply with the instructions, quite a number of our representative mutes were absent.

Among the enjoyments, was a mock marriage gotten up on the spur of the occasion. As we believe in such a thing as fate, we will withhold the names of the contracting parties. Suffice it to say the minister wore specs, Ben Frank acted as best man, Miss Whipple as maid of honor. A reception followed, then the wedding dinner, and the "wedding cake" was last touched, and slices done up in Japanese napkins to be kept as mementos of the occasion.

Harry Hart has joined the bicycle ranks, having purchased a fine pneumatic machine.

The first day he got so sick of it, that now instructions are sent out that the man who offers $25 cash, can have it on the spot.

Tom King, of Racine, passed through Chicago, in route for St. Joe. Mr. Loew is in receipt of the following request from an European. "Be kind enough and invite the coming German deaf congress in Hanover to participate on the World's Congress of the Deaf in Chicago. About twenty to thirty German deaf-mutes are willing to come to the congress provided they have a proper invitation. They would like to talk it over at their meetings."

Misses White, Rhodes and McKee, "the three little maids from school are we," are planning to join the Chicago delegation to Springfield. The delegation hopes to have the pleasure of meeting a large St. Louis delegation and to smoke the pipe of peace. It is hoped the St. Louis Club will yet be fortunate enough to secure the more commodious hall it is trying to obtain to accommodate its growing ranks.

Tuesday, the train bearing the pupils for their homes is expected to arrive. There will be fully two hundred under the charge of supervisors, and the scene at the depot can be well imagined.

Parents, sisters, brothers, relatives and friends will flock there in hundreds, and a wild rush will be made for the cars as the train comes running in. Hugs and kisses announce the joys of meeting. An hour later, presto, change, not one of the crowd is there.

How Decoration Day was Observed.

THE INDEPENDENTS VANQUISHED.

A Disappointed Bridal Party.

(From our Columbus Correspondent.)

School was dismissed at the close of the forenoon session, and all employed about the Institution, who could be spared, enjoyed a half holiday on Decoration Day.

The weather, after a week's rain and cloudy, proved a genial May-day on the occasion, and gave all an opportunity to take an outing. Many of the girls took advantage of it by taking short strolls on the streets surrounding the institution. Principal Patterson at the morning service conducted the exercises, and he recounted in a vivid manner, the cause and results of the war, also some reminiscences. He was a pupil of the Institution at the time of the breaking out of the struggle. He related the visit of Lincoln, when on his way to Washington, to Columbus, and how the pupils were permitted to go to the State Capitol to see the distinguished man. He described his appearance, and the enthusiasm that was manifested by the populace for the man and cause, as he appeared upon the steps to speak. Five years later he and the pupils were again to see Lincoln cold in the icy embrace of death, and instead of shouts of joy there were tears and sorrow manifested by every one. Of those who witnessed these scenes who were then connected with the Institution, either as pupils or officers, and who are here now, only five can be counted, viz: Messrs. Benj. Talbot, R. H. Atwood, P. P. Pratt, R. P. McGregor and R. Patterson.

The Independents, on Monday, were allowed to go up to Delaware to cross battle with Ohio Wesley University Club for two games. They were in charge of Mr. Lewis W. Flenniken. No one expected them to return home with victory perched upon their banner, for the College club is composed of big players, and what is more are a strong club in experience, while our boys are mere saplings. Judging from the score they must have been kept pretty busy, chasing the ball over the field. Another item of ill luck was the fact that the last game played here proved their twelfth consecutive victory, and then of course came the fatal thirteen, which true enough proved their Jonah. We append the dispatch to the State Journal, telling what befel the Independents in the combat.

DELaware, O., May 30.—The Independents of Columbus, came to our city this morning with a record of twelve consecutive victories behind them but returned this evening with the record badly broken, not even having made it interesting for the Ohio Wesleyans.

In the afternoon game they gave up the battle at the end of the sixth. Shortstop Volk of the Ohio Wesleyans had his collarbone broken near the first of the second game.

FIRST GAME.

Ohio Wesleyans.....3 6 0 0 2 0 3 5—21
Independents.....0 2 0 0 0 0 0 0—0

SECOND GAME.

Ohio Wesleyans.....1 4 11 0 6 3—25
Independents.....2 0 1 0 0 0—2-5

The club received $60 for the two games played. This, after paying expenses of the trip will leave it quite a little pile, which will be used next year for uniforms, etc.

The attendance at the afternoon game was immense. Seemed as if the whole town had come out to see the boys and the stuff they were made of. Sorry they didn't give a better exhibition.

Clonisa Society will give its annual closing exercises and reception Saturday evening, June 11th. The literary exercises will take place in the chapel, while the social party will be given in the girls' play and study rooms. Refreshments will be served in the dining room. The affair promises to eclipse all former occasions of a like nature, as all the tickets have already been sold and there is a demand for more.

Mr. Frank S. Wilson, of the Class of '82, and living in the city of Bowersville, Greene Co., getting tired of single blessedness took unto himself a wife last Tuesday, 31st ult. The young lady whom he has chosen, was Miss Francis Simms, a resident of Ethridge, Tenn. She is a semi-mute, but has never attended a school for the deaf, being educated at home.

Here is our hand, Frank, to you and yours, and may Heaven's kindest smiles ever shed their radiance over your pathway.

Jesse West, of Springfield, came over to spend Decoration Day in the Capital of Ohio, and also to call on his deaf friends at the Institution.

Messrs. McGregor, Schory, Zorn and Greener, made a trip to Lake Side yesterday, with the expectation of coming home loaded down with fish or sufficient to supply the whole institution with a meal. Fate, however, was against them, and they had a larger supply of fish stories to relate than the genuine article; nevertheless they enjoyed the outing and came home well bronzed as a result of their trip.

On last Thursday, in a certain village, not a thousand miles from Columbus, a wedding between a deaf-mute couple was to have been solemnized.

But it did not come off. Every preparation had been made for the occasion. The wedding feast was on the table, the minister was promptly on hand to unite the couple; the invited guests filled the room, high in the expectation of seeing a novel wedding ceremony. The bride was in her best anxiously awaiting the moment when the door should open and her expected lover enter. But the groom, he came not, and so the affair was declared off for the time being. Later developments showed that the young man was here in Columbus, sick, unable to fulfill his engagement and that the wedding will occur later, and further we are unable to state.

Clonisa Society held its semi-annual election for officers last evening with the following result: President, Bert Noble; Vice President and Treasurer, Albertus Wornstaff; Secretary, Miss Annie B. Montgomery; Librarian, Bessie Deffrees; assistant Librarian, Geo. V. Bath.

Ill luck seems to have gotten over the Independents of late. In a game yesterday with the Columbus Latin School Club, they sustained almost as bad a defeat as they did with the Ohio Wesley University Club last Monday. The score yesterday was 23 to 3 against them.

Miss Jane M. Campbell, of Lewis Center, was calling upon Columbus friends during the week. She expects soon to make an extended visit to friends in Michigan.

An eight-pound girl baby came to brighten the home of Mr. and Mrs. Preston Perry, of Detroit, on Decoration Day. Mrs. Perry's maiden name was Ida White, and she received her education at the Ohio School. Her Columbus friends extend congratulations upon the happy event.

DEAF-MUTES AT CHURCH.

ONE LITTLE BOY, DEAF, DUMB AND BLIND, UNDERSTANDS, COMPREHENDS, SIGNS AND WRITES HIS ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS—"NEARER, MY GOD, TO THEE" GIVEN WITH SIGNS—ALTOGETHER AN INTERESTING AND INSTRUCTIVE SERVICE.

N. Y. Advocate, June 6.

About 60 members of the New York Institution for the Instruction of the Deaf and Dumb, 162d Street and Amsterdam Avenue, entertained and instructed the Congregation of Pilgrim Church, Madison Avenue and 121st Street, last night. The services opened with devotional exercises, after which the Rev. Dr. Samuel H. Virgin introduced Dr. Peet and Mr. Currier, of the institution. Dr. Peet took charge of affairs and the deaf-mutes gave an exhibition of what they had learned and what they could do.

The first mute to be introduced to the audience was a little boy, neatly dressed and intelligent-looking. It would be hard to imagine one more afflicted in this life than was this boy, for besides being deaf and dumb he is totally blind. Dr. Peet took hold of the boy's hands and by the motions of his own hand asked him:

"What is your name?"

The boy went to the blackboard, and in quite legible English: "Horace Benson."

Then the question:

"How old are you?" was asked.

The boy wrote: "I am 10 years old."

How to imbue such a person with the first spark of intelligence. When to begin his education and how, would seem an insolvable problem, and yet his teachers with almost superhuman patience have accomplished the task. This boy can read by running his hand over raised characters and can enjoy the blessings of picture-books, devoid of pictures to the audience, but when "Horace Benson" passed his hand over it, his face at once lighted up and he wrote on the blackboard:

"It is a bird."

Four boys then came upon the platform. They were George McDonald, 10 years of age, Beril Segal, 10 years, Herman Sanders, 10 years, and David Burke, 12 years. They counted money, wrote sentences on the blackboard tried to read them aloud. Not being able to hear a sound this is difficult to teach, but by showing them how to move their tongues it is accomplished. Of course they lack all modulation, but still their words could be understood. Some of the advanced pupils were then given subjects to write about. Dr. Virgin prepared the subjects. They were all meritorious.

Miss M. A. Fish, who happened to be assigned the subject "The Need of Human Sympathy in This World," wrote as follows:

Sympathy is the link which gives life and vigor to all the amenities of society. Without it there would be no happiness. Perfect love requires perfect sympathy, and progress in all the arts depends on sympathetic actions and reasonings. Nature proclaims everywhere that sympathy is the foundation of order, and one of the grandest examples of sympathetic action is the functions of the human organs. With each beat of the heart, respiration takes place, and the muscles do their own part. In daily life we feel the need of sympathy, and its use is manifested in numerous other ways. A cup of water soothed the thirst of a soldier on the field of Zuphen, and the sympathetic here who gave it was the white-plumed knight, Sir Philip Sydney, whose life should be an example to us all.

Five young ladies then gave "Nearer, my God, to Thee," in the sign-language. Their movements were very graceful and pathetic.

A collection was taken up for the benefit of the inmates of the Institution, and all contributed liberally.

The very interesting programme was brought to a close by the benediction from Dr. Virgin.

Adjournment for dinner.

AFTERNOON SESSION—AUG. 17, AT 2:30 P.M.

- 1. Prayer, by Rev. Job. Turner; alternate, Prof. Childister, of West Virginia. 2. Poem, by (to be supplied.) 3. Unfinished and new business. 4. Reports of committees, etc. 5. Adjournment.

EVENING SESSION—AUG. 17, AT 7:30 P.M.

[To be made up.]

The programme gives entire satisfaction in every respect, and the proceedings of the Convention promise to be of intense interest. An excursion to the wonderful caverns of Luray is being considered. If the excursion is declared "all-a-go," the party will leave Staunton early on the morning of the 18th, and after a twelve-mile ride over a smooth road, the train will be switched off to the Maryland & Washington Division of the Norfolk & Western Railroad at Basic City, where an engine will be in waiting and pull the coaches down the road to Luray, a distance of nearly sixty miles, whence the party will take hacks and be driven a mile out of the town to the caverns. The party will leave Luray in the afternoon and stop at Elkton, on the homeward stretch, and be entertained by Professor Bear at his famous lithia springs.

The Farmer's Alliance of Virginia meets in Staunton on the same dates as does our Convention, and therefore reduced railroad rates over all lines in the State are an assured fact. In event the excursion to Luray is declared "off," a picnic to one of the several camping grounds of the pupils of the last two generations, in the vicinity of Staunton, will be held. It is earnestly requested that all deaf-mutes who have any intention of being present at this the Second Convention of the Virginia Association of the Deaf, will drop a postal to President Michaels at once and make known such intention. Principal Doyle will welcome the "children" to their "alma mater," in a speech delivered in the sign-language by himself.

NEWS NOTES.

The Bear Lithia Springs will be run by Prof. Yates this Summer. Mr. Bear, the proprietor, having other duties to claim his attention. Mr. Yates is now at the Springs making arrangements for the reception of guests this Summer.

Among the several gold medals awarded to pupils at the close of each session, is what is called a "Walker's Medal." It is given to the boy or girl who walks in a graceful and dignified manner and carries an erect form. There is a close contest for the medal this session.

The Institution will close on Wednesday next, and the next morning all the passenger trains leaving Staunton will be crowded with pupils going to their homes in all parts of the State.

The reports that Mr. Dunlop, Baker was married, are all untrue. He is still enjoying the bliss of bachelorhood.

Our sanctorum was considerably brightened up last Tuesday morning by the dignified personage of a National Deaf-Mute College boy. He was Mr. C. B. Merrick, of Wilmington, Del., and was on his way to Hampton. We are always glad to welcome college boys to our sanctorum, as we always have a peculiar interest in meeting them.

The pupils of the Institution were given a half holiday last week. The boys had an excursion into the country, where they had a glorious old-time picnic.

The Hartford Celebration.

The Committee of Arrangements on the Hartford Celebration informs us that they have engaged "Governor's Foot Guard Armory Hall" from 8 A.M. to midnight, Wednesday, August 31st, the day of celebration. The hall is said to be one of the finest in Hartford, having all the modern conveniences such as galleries, coat-rooms, electric bells and lights. It has a banquet room in which we propose to have a banquet at the close of the exercises of the celebration.

The ranks of the committee have been fixed as follows: W. K. Chase, Chairman; J. E. Crane, Vice; H. M. Fairman, Treasurer; and H. Erbe, Clerk. Mr. Erbe will act as toast-master.

Messrs. Fisher, Crane and Sawyer have been chosen a committee to invite the Gallaudet family and a few others.

The sessions of the eighteenth Biennial Convention will take place in the chapel of the American Asylum, August 29th and 30th, commencing at 9 o'clock.

On the authority of Mr. J. E. Crane, we are informed that Prof. J. B. Hotchkiss is suffering with a stroke of paralysis on the left side of his face, and is under treatment of a skillful physician. We earnestly hope that he will recover. We have chosen an alternate, though not engaged, as a matter of economy, nor will we engage him till we are directly informed of Prof. Hotchkiss' disability.

The Committee of Arrangements will meet again in Hartford on the Fourth of July to complete arrangements, and by that time the program, which will be arranged by the President and Secretary, will be ready for publication, and also full particulars given by the Committee of Arrangements, regarding hotel and railroad arrangements. But for the present I trust this letter will be sufficient to give your readers an idea of what the celebration will be, and wish them to keep it in mind, while going away on vacations.

Will you please suggest one or two names of deaf-mutes who can write a fitting poem for the celebration.

Sincerely yours,

GEO. C. SAWYER.

Secretary N. E. G. A.

The Celebration.

EDITOR JOURNAL:—Please let me announce through your paper that as many school vacations will commence next week, and many people are going to be off on their vacation, the new circular concerning the Hartford celebration will not be ready then, but they may get an idea of our programme, as follows:—August 28th, Sunday, will be devoted to religious services; August 29th and 30th, business meeting of the New England Gallaudet Association; and August 31st, Wednesday, is the date of the grand celebration of the Seventy-fifth Anniversary of the American Asylum in Governor's Foot Guard Armory Hall. All the teachers of the deaf and graduates of the other schools, are cordially invited to partake in the festivities of this extraordinary occasion. This famous new hall has ample accommodations for all. For next circular, with full particulars by July 1st, just drop a postal card to any of the committee.

Obituary.

From the Watertown, Y. Y., Times.

Mrs. Charles Howell Cooper, nee Anna Rhoda Churchill, whose death occurred on Friday, June 3d, was born August 1st, 1846, in New Lebanon, Columbia County, N. Y. She went to Poughkeepsie to Prof. Bartlett's private school for one year. She also attended the New York institute for deaf-mutes for eleven years. After graduating from this institute she spent one year at home, then going to Flint, Mich., where she taught two years. She was married in October, 1872, at Cleveland, Ohio. Her health had been very poor for the last four years. Two daughters and her husband survive her; also her mother who resides at New Lebanon at the age of eighty-six years, and several brothers and sisters. The funeral will take place from her late residence, 34 Washington Street, Monday, at 4:30 P.M.

AUBURN, MASS.

Auburn, Mass., was on Memorial Day the scene of a delightful surprise party, given to Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Howe.

A party of Worcester mutes took the 9:35 P.M. train for Auburn, where they were, later on joined by delegations from Oxford and Leicester, which swelled their numbers to nearly thirty. The morning was spent by the party at various amusements and trying to break Charley Clarkson's camera by posing before it, the ostensible purpose of the party being a picnic. When the noon hour arrived, all were invited into Mr. and Mrs. Trask's dining room to dispose of a plentiful repast, which the ladies had prepared. Before starting in to eat, Mr. and Mrs. Howe were ordered to stand up, and after a few remarks by one of the party, they were presented with a very pretty set of tableware and a number of other articles. Their little daughter, Lucy, also came in for her share of presents, and after the presentation was over, she opened the meal with a little prayer.

Dinner over, the party indulged in games—ball for the men and tag for the ladies—and all hands enjoyed themselves to the best of their ability until 5 P.M., when the first contingent started for home, the last going at 8 P.M.

Altogether the affair was a most enjoyable one, and the thanks of all are due to the efforts of Mr. and Mrs. Howe and Mr. and Mrs. Trask to contribute to the enjoyment of the occasion.

Notice to Members of the Maine Deaf-Mute Mission.

The Board of Officers are obliged to postpone the Convention of the Maine Deaf-Mute Mission at Gardiner, one year from August next.

The Board of Officers have appointed Mr. Hiram P. Hunt, of Gray, Auditor of the said Mission.

There are two reasons why the said Convention at Gardiner is postponed one year.

First, Because there are two Conventions, which will meet on the same day, (Maine Deaf-Mute Mission and New England Gallaudet Association,) therefore the officers of the Maine Deaf-Mute Mission are obliged to postpone the convention, so many of the Maine Deaf-Mutes may be benefitted by going to the Hartford Celebration.

Second, Because the officers of the said Mission cannot get any interpreter from the Hartford School, for they may prefer to stay at home to enjoy the occasion.

If any person wishes information, can write to the Secretary, Box 32, Kennebunk Avenue.

DANA B. TAYLOR.

Secretary, M. D. M. M.

P. S.—I would like to hear from members of the said Mission, whether they favor the postponement of the Convention for one year, or they oppose the postponement.

Drop a postal card to the Secretary.

STRAWBERRY FESTIVAL.

There will be an annual strawberry and ice-cream festival given in the Sunday-school rooms of St. Ann's Church, under the auspices of the Guild of Silent Workers, on Tuesday evening, June 14th. This will be the last social for the season. The Guild has proved a great blessing to the sick and needy mutes in the city since its organization, and has relieved our ministers of many unpleasant embarrassments as to the wants of the unfortunate class of mutes. Those who are familiar about the miserable conditions of these people, heartily pray that the Guild shall remain useful and live always.

The Ladies' Committee of Entertainment respectfully request ladies to furnish cake for the festival if they can, which will be highly appreciated; they sincerely hope that there will be a good many that will willingly swell the coffers of the blessed Guild, by showing themselves at the festival.

Tables will be arranged to suit all, and refreshments delicious and dainty. "Strawberry Festivals" given by the Guild of Silent Workers have always been attractive and well patronized by all classes. Admission will be only thirty cents.

COMMITTEE.

SUNDRY ITEMS.

The New Jersey School for the Deaf closes for the term on the 25th inst.

Dr. Warring Wilkinson, Principal of the California Institution, who has been spending a year in Europe investigating the methods of educating deaf-mutes, will sail for this country on July 2d.

The friends of Mr. and Mrs. L. N. Soper, of New York City, will regret to learn that their infant daughter Helen, died on Sunday afternoon at three o'clock, and was buried on Monday, the 6th inst. Our sympathy goes out to the bereaved parents.

The mother Mr. Tilson Haight, very kindly and generously remembered the Gallaudet Home for Aged and Infirm Deaf-Mutes, a few days before her death by a donation of $50. May such an example be followed.

MARRIED.

At Christ Church, Indianapolis, June 2d, by Rev. Austin W. Mann, Mr. James Sherman Richardson and Miss Mary Ella Pfitzner, of Windfall, Ind.; both graduates of the Indiana Institution.

NEW YORK.

Take Heed of Two Weeks Ahead.

THE M. L. A. CLOSES SHOP.

A WISE STEP AND RETURN OF A PRODIGAL THE CLOSING DEEDS—"HE'S ALL RIGHT"—OTHER PARAGRAPHS.

From our New York Correspondent.

A real good time is promised those who attend the German Charity Society's festival two weeks ahead. The committee having charge of the arrangements are working industriously for the success of the affair. Instead of the one, two, order, tickets are being disposed of in blocks of five, ten, and in some instances, twenty-five or more.

As to the theatrical part of the festival, the members have great confidence in Mr. Klemme's ability to carry the pantomimes to a successful issue. "Carmenita" Whalen's high kicking and spiral like revolutions are already familiar to the deaf-mute public and many of their friends. On this occasion, he expresses the hope of eclipsing all his former efforts, and is fixing up a brand new wardrobe for the coming event.

Bronner's Park is within easy reach from its local surroundings and Brooklyn. A pleasant trip by water is afforded Brooklyn patrons of the affair. Boats leave Peck Slip and land passengers within a short distance of the park. Inside the park, there is about everything necessary for the promotion of an afternoon's enjoyment. Should the weather not accord with amusement out-doors, the immense capacity of the enclosed and sheltered dancing pavilion should quiet any fear on the score of getting wet. There may be more to say on the event a week before the date, but just now the above will answer the question of a few doubtful ones as to what sort of entertainment they may expect.

Thursday, June 2d, saw the close of Manhattan Literary Association business for at least three months to come. Remove from your mind any misgivings as to the Manhattan Literary Association giving up its lease on life. The old craft has been too long on the waves of this uncertain world to think of such a thing. Under the able direction of President Froehlich, the past season has been a noteworthy and successful one. In the fall, no doubt, new strength will be invested in the timbers of the old ship. Mr. Emil Bascb, after almost a year's seclusion, comes back to the "old love," and is now on the roster of the association. Before putting up the shutters, the association did a wise turn by selecting President Theodore A. Froehlich to represent them at the coming Hartford Celebration in August.

"What's the matter with Crack Shot Kohlmetz?" Oh! he's all right. Not so prominent at mute gatherings as before death visited his family, for all that ever ready with his fund of humor when the right party runs across him. Living happily with his wife at 229 East Seventieth Street, he is loyal to St. Louis and his friends there as if he were still a resident of that thriving town.

The Printers' Benevolent Union's annual picnic occurs this year at Lion Park, July 30th. As usual, a set of athletic games will be given.

In Grace Episcopal Church, on June 2d, Miss Edith Thomson, of this city, was united in wedlock to Mr. George Mann, of Colorado, the ceremony being witnessed by the relatives and intimate friends of the contracting parties. The bride is a sister of Clement R. Thomson, formerly manager of the Gallaudet Home. Mr. and Mrs. M. Heyman, and sister, Miss Pauline Weil, of Plymouth, Pa., were among the invited guests. Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Thomson reside with the former's mother in a commodious house on Irving Place this city.

The bicycle craze is spreading among the silent community. The latest aspirant for locomotion on the wheel is Charles LeClerc. A few lessons and he was A1, as he believed. Returning from a run over one of the west side boulevards, Mr. LeClerc found out he could not overcome the steed. He came within a foot of being run over. His agility saved him the call for a hospital ambulance, but his machine was carted to official headquarters on a four wheeled vehicle, drawn by a grave old nag.

Brooklyn's population was increased a week ago, when a son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Ahren, nee Miss Nellie Rachel, of Stapleton, S. I. The little fellow takes after his father, a bright and steady-going young man, formerly connected with the Westchester Catholic School. A select company of the happy parents' friends made merry on the occasion of christening, evening of the 5th, at the parental abode, Third Avenue, Brooklyn. James Ahren, Jr., will distinguish the heir. The honor of god-mother was accorded Miss Emma Gallagher, of Brooklyn.

One hour and thirty minutes was the limit allowed Secretary Capelli to go through the minutes at the Fanwood Quad Club meeting Saturday evening, the 4th. He seemed satisfied, and came out with a small margin in favor of the club. Business transacted was encouraging, if somewhat limited. The report of Treasurer Fox, on the club's and the Columbian Exposition Fund's standing, gave general satisfaction. Subscriptions so the last named body closed at this meeting. There are near twenty names enrolled on its books. The club will be represented at the different outings events in mutedom during the summer. The sentiment expressed favored encouragement and aid being extended each of them. Adjournment, to meet at call of picnic Committee, was followed by the Fanwood Quad Club symposium, which was interspersed with an amount of convention gossip. Secretary Capelli chilled the company by breaking in on an interesting discussion with, "What would New York do if a flood was to come?" Like Noah, Charley LeClerc told him, "Eat Ham, of course."

Artist Dennis J. Sullivan is meeting with gratifying success at his calling. Outside of his regular employment for a prosperous crayon portrait company in this city, he does special orders. At present he has as much work as he can attend to. He is about to issue a neat professional card.

A rumor is current that Mr. John Hogan is to take unto himself a wife some time in July.

The old time track of the Scottish American Athletic Association is to serve as a temporary training quarters for the Xavier A. A. It occupies what was intended for the back yards of a row of old-fashioned homes on the west side of the town. Alexander Dezenford, back in the '80s, aspired on the circuit for pedestrian honors, and was looked upon as a likely winner, when sickness attacked him. Several of the old Fanwood A. A. members also competed on its surface. The Xaviers elected a new board of officers last week.

The Albany-Troy excursion will receive a delegation of New York mutes. Peter Mitchell and Ira Tyler have in mind attending.

There is a number of Gotham's silent members who trust their dollars to the fortunes of the turf. In the end, as with men who can speak and hear, they lose more than they gain, and give up investing to settle down to the wiser and smarter methods of winning the mighty dollars.

The Asbury Park wheelmen held a race meet at Asbury Park, N. J., on Decoration Day. In the quarter mile race for boys under sixteen, Mortimer T. Pach, of the Red Bank Cyclers, finished third. This fact was learned from a mute printer who set up the paragraph for a local paper. Mortimer sounds familiar, a brother of Alex. L. Pach, we presumed, and, of course, if so, Alexander should feel proud of his little brother's feat, as he wore the L. A. W. badge one time himself.

Hartford's celebration seems to attract some attention hereabouts. Parties are trying to fix on their vacations to accord with the date.

New York has a Columbus celebration in October next. A feature of the three days programme will be the turn out of the different colleges, schools, etc. This should influence a waking up in the deaf-mute schools. Drilling a company of deaf-mutes and a fully equipped drum corps of deaf-mutes, would attract more attention than any two schools combined. A chance for Frank Nuboor, Chester Q. Mann, or some other as likely persons to bring glory on themselves and their respective schools.

MONTAGUE TIGG.

The National Convention.

BROOKLYN May 28, 1902.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE JOURNAL:—

It may be of interest to those who contemplate attending the World's Fair in 1893, and at the same time simplify matters for the proper persons to know that provision has been made by the World's Columbian Exposition directors for the free use of halls for bodies meeting in Chicago in National Convention, in 1893, and an elaborate programme is being mapped out by the committee in charge of this feature, providing for the most extensive series of congresses and conventions ever known in history. Every interest and form of organization has been taken into account, religious, social, mechanical, national, etc. The task of preparing the way for these multiplied congresses, assigning bills, fixing dates, etc., is in charge of a committee of which Hon. Charles C. Bonney is chairman. His address is "World's Congresses Auxiliary, Chicago."

Inasmuch as the hardest labor for the local committee for the International Convention to be held in 1893, will be in securing a hall, would it not be well to make a move at once, and secure a good date and locality. If this feature of the Columbian Exposition should assume anything like the proportions expected, it may be an impossibility to secure a place at all, if the Local Committee delay matters till the last moment.

By co-operating with the Committee having this feature in charge, suitable quarters can be secured free of all expenses, and at the same time the notice of the Convention would be announced broadcast over the world, and would bring the "International Convention of 1893" into more prominence than could the unaided effort of the deaf themselves.

Very truly yours,

JAMES F. DONNELLY.

FANWOOD.

The Last Week of School—Closing Exercises.

THE CLASS OF '92 ELECTS OFFICERS.

Dr. Peet visits Yale College—The Silentias in Winning Form.

(From our Fanwood Correspondent.)

Examination week has come, and by the time our readers get this issue of the JOURNAL will be over. Examinations of the High Class took place yesterday, and that of the other Academic and Primary Departments are scheduled for to-day. For the result of these, announcement will be made in our next letter.

A few days previous to exams, the time-worn joke of nailing a piece of wood to the vest on the inside to prevent the Examiner from letting the bit in too far, was let out, as were others less noticeable.

We can hardly realize that before the next issue of this paper is out, school will be closed for the summer, and the pupils will be enjoying the first few days of their vacation, which will continue till Wednesday, September 7th. It will be seen that school closes somewhat earlier this year than heretofore, the result of an action taken by the Board of Directors in changing the close of school from the third Tuesday in June to the second. Thus the pupils will have twelve long weeks of recreation, and we trust all whose terms have not expired will return to school in the Fall and ready to resume progress in their education. To those who are never to return, we wish success in life.

Invitations to the Commencement Day Exercises are out. An exhibition of the Industrial Work and Art Department, will take place from ten to eleven in the morning of Tuesday, June 14th, and from eleven till one o'clock in the afternoon exercises in the chapel will be held, conducted by the Principal Isaac Lewis Peet, LL. D.

Prior to this, on Monday evening, the 13th inst., the class of '92, meets at seven o'clock, when they will plant their ivy, to be followed by an address, and remarks by Dr. Peet.

At the meeting of the graduating class held last week, the following officers were selected: Chairman, Wm. W. Watson; Secretary, Ella F. Taylor; Treasurer, R. E. Maynard; Ivy Orator, Frank Turner; Ivy Planter, Miss M. A. Boyd; Class Poet, Miss M. S. Fish; Flag Bearer, Miss E. R. Rapp; Drummer, R. Zundel; Committee, Messrs. Watson, Maynard and Turner, and Misses Boyd and Fish.

The motto adopted by the class is "Upright and Loyal." Class flower, Red Rose. The members are to have class pins consisting of an ivy leaf, with '92 on in blue enamel and the motto engraved over it. They will be in Roman gold, frosted and veined, so that when finished will have a fine appearance.

A week ago last Saturday, the Silentias went up to High Bridge and played a return game of ball with the Hastings team, defeating them by a score of 24 runs to 18.

On Memorial Day they played the Madisons on the Bailey Grounds again, winning by the following score:

INNINGS	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
MADISONS	0	5	3	4	0	0	0	0	13
SILENTIAS	8	2	5	0	2	0	2	x	24

Flushed with their two straight victories, the boys journeyed down to Harlem, where, on the athletic grounds of the Manhattan College boys, they defeated the Pastimes of that college. The score by innings:

INNINGS	1	2	3	4	5
PASTIMES	1	3	1	4	0-6
SILENTIA	4	8	0	5	2-14

Only five innings were played in order to allow of the boys reaching school in time for supper. The Silentias are booked to play a game with the Yorkville, or Broadway team, this week.

Last week Dr. L. L. Peet attended the semi-centennial celebration of the founding of the Scroll and Key, one of the most prominent secret college societies at Yale. The Doctor remained over night at the university, and delivered an address before the above named society. He is one of the oldest members of the club, and was received with much cordiality. His absence from presiding at the Memorial Day chapel exercises is attributable to this.

Mr. Allan B. Fay, of Harvard College, son of Dr. E. A. Fay, of the National College for the Deaf, was a visitor at the Institution on Wednesday afternoon of last week.

A new hydrant has been placed in the boys' playground and is a decided improvement, filling a long felt want. A new fence is also being erected alongside the cottage hospital.

Two of our athletes, Messrs. Betels and Dennison, have been laid up since the games on Memorial Day, the result of their falls. One walks around with the aid of a cane, and the other has his left arm in a sling. With these slight occurrences, all the others are in first rate condition.

Sunday evening last the pupils of this Institution gave an exhibition at

Dr. Virgin's Church, 121st Street and Madison Avenue. The church was crowded to its utmost capacity, and all seemed interested in the Deaf and their methods of education.

Mr. E. Frank Morgan, Jr., known among deaf-mutes while attending college at Stevens, Hoboken, N. J., surprised Mr. Capelli on Sunday last by making him a pleasant visit. He was accompanied by a pretty young lady, to whom only a week before he was united in marriage. After spending a day or two in Albany, N. Y., they return to New York City, when on Saturday they sail for Europe.

HURRY SCURRY.

KANSAS CITY, MO.

Rain! Rain! Rain! We have had an overabundance of rain this past spring, which necessarily causes much hardship to those who live upon the low lands bordering the great Missouri River, and the poor farmer is living still in hopes of still getting somewhat of a crop to pay him for his labors never in the history of this city, has there been so great a rain fall as we have just experienced, not with standing the floods that have come and gone doing great devastation in their wake. The deaf-mutes of our city have been left all high and dry, and still doing active business at the same old stand.

It will be the special pleasure of myself and wife to take a few weeks' time, and journey through the old graveyards of the East, and visit the scenes of my boyhood I used to love so well. On Wednesday, June 19th, we will leave for St. Louis, Mo., and there will attend the picnic given by the St. Louis mute Club from St. Louis. We will go direct to Detroit, Mich., and visit with relatives, thence to Cleveland, Ohio from there to Defiance, Ohio, to visit my wife's childhood home. Returning we will stop in Ft. Wayne, Ind., Chicago, Ill., and Jacksonville, Ill. This will be the first visit I have had the pleasure of making the trip since I left the East sixteen years ago, and we hope to meet many old-time acquaintances.

Correspondence has been received from Mr. J. E. Staudacher, of Sioux City, Ia., in which he regrets his inability to be with us at our reunion, June 9th. John sends his best wishes to all our city mutes, and wishes them a very enjoyable time.

Miss Mary Fritz called upon us recently, and informed us that she was still employed at the great packing house. She is now boarding at 340 James Street, Kansas City, Kan.

I received a letter from Mr. Alfred Kent, of the Olathe Institution, saying that there was a good demand for the tickets for the reunion, June 9th. I sent him more, and expect some fifty to attend from Olathe. Come all of you who can, the more the merrier.

It was my pleasure to call at the cozy home of Mr. and Mrs. Greely this morning, and was pleased to find them all well, and with shoulder to the wheel working for the success of the coming reunion.

Mr. Bruce Hewitt, of the Olathe Institution, will be amongst the merry-makers next Thursday. Bruce is a royal good fellow with entertaining abilities beyond comparison.

Our ever genial Frank Patterson still maintains his popularity, and has shown by his strict attention to business that he will eventually get there with alacrity.

It was a special pleasure for me to meet several deaf-mute gentlemen down on Main Street last Saturday evening. Amongst them was Mr. Sam Fox, who is still holding down his position at the job printing office on Delaware Street. Sam has our thanks for his valuable assistance in selling tickets for the reunion. They have to go with his determined push.

Mrs. Robert Monson gave us a pleasant call yesterday, and reports every body well over in Kansas City, Kan.

THE GALLAUDET HOME.

The summer season has just set in and smiling nature is arrayed in all her magnificence, but does not a contrast present itself between the snow-capped mountains and the broad expanse of verdure far below them. Thoughts of summer bring pleasant anticipations to the toil burdened, and those who have the means and leisure at their disposal. Judging from what is going to transpire, it will be an eventful summer to the deaf and dumb in this great western republic, where more is being done to promote their spiritual and temporal welfare than anywhere else on the face of the globe, and that it is an undeniable truth goes without saying. These of the inmates who were recently photographed in groups, chanced to be Mrs. Totten, Mrs. Starr, Mrs. Roberts, Mrs. Graham, Mrs. Kipp, Lizzie Fischer, Hattie Haws and Mary Smith, Mr. Fox, John Cunningham, Charles Oakes, Richard Clinton, Edwin Palin, Chas. Ayres, Samuel Moses, Mike Bauer, and Benny Friday. The photographs are at Mrs. C. M. Nelson's house and will no doubt meet with a ready sale on the day of the lawn party. If we are not mistaken, the pictures were furnished through the kindness of Mrs. Gallup, who is an occasional visitor here.

A new arm-chair that can be turned around any way, has been put in Supervisor Gardner's room, and gives it a comfortable look.

Mrs. Moore and Mrs. Thornhill made a call at Vassar College on the afternoon of May 18th. It was a bright, warm day, and they enjoy the ride very much. Vassar College is named after the late Matthew Vassar who bequeathed a magnificent sum for its erection, and the grounds comprising some two hundred acres are beautifully laid out.

Mr. Hatch received a large bundle of new clothes from his relatives in Newark, N. J., last month, and was happy.

Saturday, the 14th ult., Mrs. Elizabeth Mills Chamberlain accompanied her husband to Philadelphia, and they stopped over night at the Institution for Deaf-Mutes, and dined with Mr. Crouter the following day. While in town, Mr. and Mrs. Chamberlain met Miss Anna Roberts, and had a nice talk with her. Mrs. Chamberlain did not spend a few weeks at Hadden Field, N. J., as was reported in the Register of a recent issue, for the lady could ill afford to spare much time from her case.

Several weeks ago, Edwin Palin showed the inmates a curious stone, which resembled a human tooth, and would make a good relic for a person skilled in mineralogy.

Two ladies and an equal number of gentlemen were conducted through the building, Thursday morning, the 19th ult. They registered their names in the visitors' book, as Mr. and Mrs. Cooke, of New York, Mr. and Mrs. Hitchcock, of Poughkeepsie, the latter gentleman being superintendent of the poorhouse in this county.

Mr. Clinton has a pasteboard writer similar to one that was presented to Orris Benson, a blind pupil at the Fanwood School, and thinks it is an useful invention.

Mrs. Nicholson is back at her post again, from a short but delightful sojourn in Danville, N. Y. She said Dr. Gallaudet's little granddaughter, Dorothy, whom she had the pleasure of seeing, is one of the most beautiful babies in the world, has black hair and eyes, and dimpled rosy cheeks.

A slight error accidentally crept into the last letter from here relative to the lawn party, which comes off on Wednesday morning, the 15th, instead of on June 14th.

Information has reached us from New York City that the father and a half sister of Mr. Oakes are dead.

Mrs. M. L. Newell, of Goshen, N. Y., sent three handsome pictures a short time ago, one of which represents the crucifixion of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ. The pictures adorn the walls in the front hall, and will be pleasant reminders of her kind interest in the home.

Sunday morning, May 22d, while the inmates were assembled in the chapel, Mr. Ayers imparted the service to blind Mr. Clinton in the sign-language by following the motions of Mr. Gardner's hands. Charles hit upon an excellent idea.

Mrs. Moore took her departure for the metropolis on an early morning train, Monday, two weeks ago.

The walls along the back stairs are painted dark yellow, and look better for it, so the white-washing was dispensed with.

A few lady visitors called Thursday, the 26th ult., and brought a silk and velvet crazy quilt, which was pronounced lovely by those who saw it.

No less than seven Italians were digging holes near the wheat field on the premises Friday afternoon, the 27th ult., when Mr. Fox and another inmate happened to be in close proximity to them. The sound of voices in a foreign language caught Mr. Gardner's quick ear, and he hastened to the spot to see what was up, whereupon Antonio Bengini shook a long knife in his face. The Italians were requested not to trespass upon forbidden ground; but if the law is violated they may expect prompt punishment; or will be banished from these parts.

The matron and Mrs. Totten were in Poughkeepsie Sunday last week, and returned at sundown. It is a good long ride from here to the city, and the road we usually take is lined on either side by stately ornamental and shade trees. Cozy farm houses, and well cultivated farms are scattered here and there, but before the journey is half through we pass over a merry creek which extends some distance east and west.

Memorial day passed quietly at the home, but, in remembrance of the brave men who were slain on the blood stained battlefields, while defending their country from a probable wreck, the glorious stars and stripes floated proudly in the warm spring air. Everybody had been expecting fine weather for the observance of the occasion, but it was alternate shadow and sunshine, however to towards evening a change in the atmosphere became apparent and down the rain drops fell. A pleasing incident that marked the day, was the bringing home of a live turtle which Charles Ayres found somewhere. The harmless creature was put in a pail of water, around which some of inmates gathered in curious wonder. Miss Lillie Price and Mr. Adolph Pfeiffer, Miss Leila Nelson and Mr. McCann came all the way from Poughkeepsie, but their stay was very short. When remarks were made about Miss Price's approaching marriage, she blushed and acknowledged the assertion. All of the party received their education at schools where the oral system is upheld, though they seemed to be conversant with the finger alphabet and sign language.

One day lately, a small dog with silky black curly hair, and bright flashing eyes, followed Mr. Gardner here, and supposing Zulu had got lost, he was kindly cared for and petted by all. Upon inquiry it was learned that the dog belonged to a little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Colgate, who live near the Falls. Mrs. Colgate visited four years here ago, but the next time she comes she will be surprised to see what a marvelous change has taken place since then.

An account of the lawn party will appear in the JOURNAL ere long.

NEW YORK, June 6th, 1892.

When the warmer days prompt a thought of Seasonable Clothing we shall have pleasure in showing a variety of Serge, Cheviot, Homespun and Fancy Worsteds Suits, in medium and light colors, with half lined coats, so attractive that he must indeed be a hard man to satisfy who cannot make a choice. For young men and large boys the prices range from $12 to $20. Men's sizes somewhat more.

Just now the demand is for somewhat darker colors and a trifle weightier fabrics, with which we are just as well prepared.

A. L. Thomas, a deaf-mute salesman, will be glad to show you our stock at the Prince Street store when you can conveniently call to look at clothing, hats or shoes.

Free deliveries to all points within one hundred miles of New York City.

SECOND ANNUAL

GRAND EXCURSION

OF THE
Troy & Albany Deaf-Mutes' Association

IN AID OF THE AGED AND INFIRM DEAF-MUTES.

DOWN THE HUDSON TO BAERENA PARK,

ON THE "MERCHANT."

with a powerful tug, carrying capacity of 1,500 people, with yellow pine decks for dancing, has been refitted and refurnished, and is now one of the most desirable excursion barges on the Hudson.

MONDAY, JULY 18, 1892.

An occasion that, while having all the attractions of a first class, is, in the sail alone, worth double the money. No better opportunity could be afforded to view the superb scenery along the "Rhine of America" by daylight, and very probably by moonlight. With this, all who attend will know they are doing a good turn, as the proceeds go to the current expenses for the Aged and Infirm Deaf-Mutes.

The Company has made many improvements at the beautiful Baerena Park. With a spacious pavilion, baseball grounds, it has been made a regular excursion resort, comprising all the attractions, viz., swings, shooting-gallery, row boats, platform for dancing, etc., etc.

This island, now the favorite resort for river excursions and surrounded by trees, is situated on a high bluff overlooking the Hudson.

Young men, please bring your sweethearts and enjoy yourselves on our excursion.

We shall engage a band to furnish music, so bring along your hearing friends. We will guarantee that this part of the programme will be of the best.

The round trip is only 48 miles. Refreshments served on the barge and at the Park.

Tickets, 50c.; Under 12, 25c.

THE "MERCHANT" WILL LEAVE:
Troy, foot State Street, at 9 o'clock A.M.
Albany, foot State St., at 10 o'clock A.M.

CHARLES F. MULL, Manager.
THUR E. CARLMAN, Treasurer.

THIRD ANNUAL PICNIC

—OF—
The Pas-a-Pas Club

(The Largest Deaf-Mute Organization in the World.)

—AT—CLYBOURN PARK,
WHEELING, ILL.

On Tuesday, July 5, 1892.

THE Park is on the line of the Wisconsin R. R., on the banks of the Des Plaines River.

Special train leaves the Western Central Depot, Harrison St. and Fifth Ave., at 8:45 A.M. sharp, making stops at Halsted St., Blue Island Ave., and Ogden Ave. stations before reaching park. Returning train leaves Park at 7 P.M. Tickets, including admission to grounds: Adults, 50 cents; Children, under fifteen years, 25 cents.

Tickets may be had of any member of the Club, or at the train on day of the picnic.

There are on the grounds, restaurant and refreshment stands, photograph and shooting galleries, bowling alleys, games of all kinds, base ball and lawn tennis grounds, and fine boating on the river. Refreshments of all kinds may be had on the grounds, but no intoxicating liquors will be sold.

The Club will spare neither pains or expense to make it an enjoyable day for all.

Out of town visitors can take advantage of the reduced rates on all Roads from July 2d to 6th, and attend this picnic at half the usual rates. Come One! Come All! For further particulars address
